

JUNGLE FEVER

(wish you were here)

Ahmedabad - Neufelden

2 journeys and their remains

jungle fever, poster, june 2013

JUNGLE FEVER (wish you were here) was initiated in 2011, originally as an attempt to reclaim Leisure and Tourism using the strategies of their consumption.

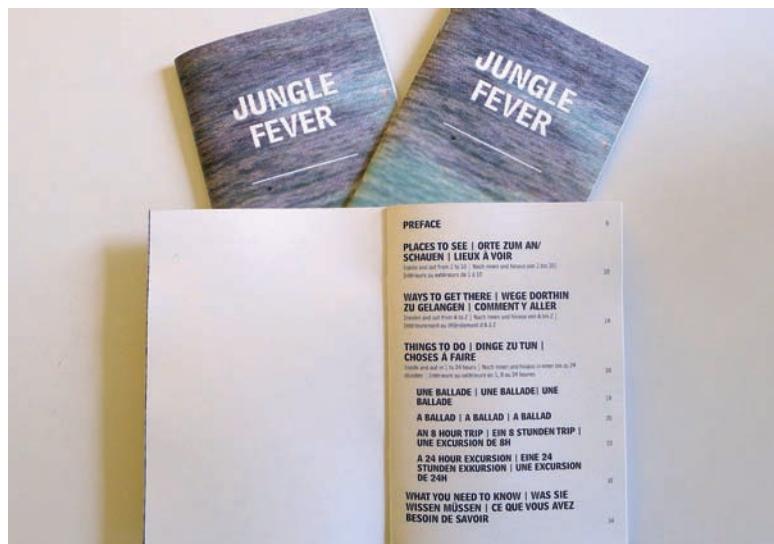

The project has evolved in response to what fellow junglers contributed along the way, strategies and insights that are feeding through future manifestations and activations. It is now more concerned with a broader engagement with the everyday, advocating an active rather than a passive or consuming attitude.

The Jungle refers now to both our interior and exterior landscape and the fever to a particular state of mind conducive to play, introspection or innovation. The term JUNGLE FEVER has become synonymous with a safe environment and a heightened state of mind where one may put life on pause for a while, and if need be take the time to consider, play (with), or challenge whatever one chooses too.

The JUNGLE FEVER user guide, 42 pages in three languages (English, German and French) is now in its third edition with a new improved map and a few comments and captions from past junglers. It has been activated 4 times for the proposed 8 hours journey, in Dusseldorf and Munich (Germany), Neufeldend (Austria) and Ahmedabad (India)

(wish you were here) is a growing archive of traces gathered along the way since the first destination in London in April 2011 - participants' snapshots, home movies, diaries and postcards. It will soon be gathered as a website.

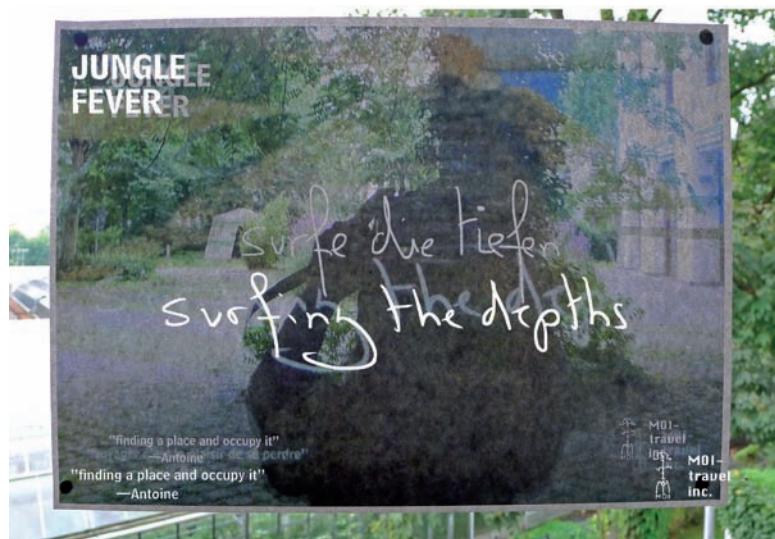

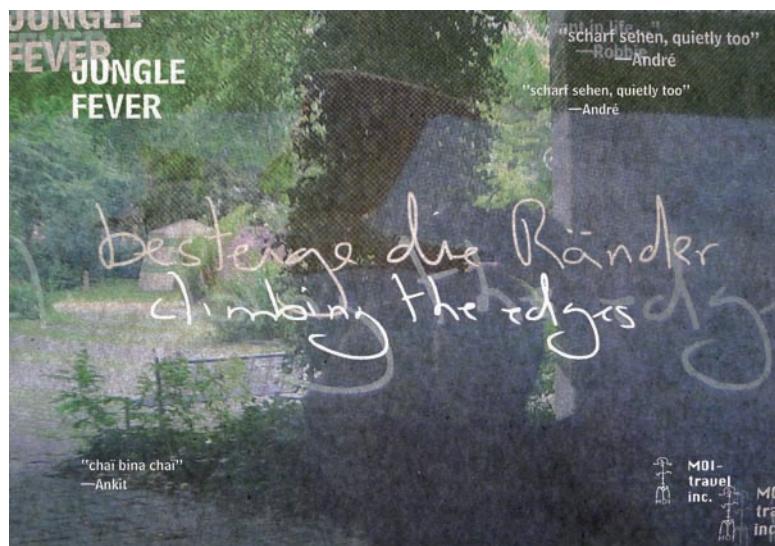

" Leisure will have an important role in society. ... The role of the artist is to promote the creative use of leisure and creativity as a way of life, but also as a weapon against alienation." Robert Filliou, Teaching and learning as performing art, 1970.
